

FELLINI WITH PAWSECCO

Bellini with prosecco

The Bellini is a deliciously refreshing cocktail. The combination of prosecco and fruit makes it very light and easy to drink. Our feline twist on this classic uses raspberries instead of the traditional peach, giving it iCatCare's signature pink colour.

Bellinis and felines

The Bellini was invented in 1948 in a bar called 'Harry's Bar', in Venice. It was named after the Italian renaissance painter Giovanni Bellini.

Another famous Italian artist who lived at the same time as Giovanni Bellini was Leonardo Da Vinci. His surviving work includes a sheet of drawings of more than twenty domestic cats and lions (and one dragon!). Leonardo Da Vinci is famously quoted as saying:

"The smallest feline is a masterpiece."

FELLINI WITH PAWSECCO

Bellini with prosecco

Ingredients

Serves 6

- 200g frozen raspberries
- 2 tablespoons caster sugar
- 1 bottle prosecco

Method

- Blend the raspberries and sugar until pureed
- Strain the puree through a sieve to get rid of the seeds
- Put about 1 tablespoon of raspberry puree in each glass (champagne flutes are recommended for this drink)
- Pour in the prosecco, stir gently and serve!

Alcohol-free version: replace the prosecco with sparkling elderflower presse.
